SVEZIA Simrishamn «STRÄDDE»

«Strädde» is a regional word for small lanes that run perpendicular to the sea and connecting the main roads in coastal villages. As passages they are tight and narrow and interrupted by unexpected garden niches and house facades.
This interpretation provides a composition where a dense and varied urban plan offers unique possibilities for thriving intimate public spaces.
When walking through the dense city, glimpses of the sea can be seen from different vantage points. «Strädde» aims to create a contrast between the close proximity of urban life and the open sea.
«Strädde» shows the site as one part of a loop going within the city and it promotes a continuation of the harbour walk in the south and the preserving of the allotment gardens north from the site.
